

Abstract

Author(s)	Nick Crosbie
-----------	--------------

Title

Cyanobacteria research: what does the Australian water industry need?

Description

Cyanobacteria blooms are a risk to the Australian water industry, and the avoidance and management of cyanobacteria blooms can be very expensive. Research can provide some of the tools the industry requires to manage cyanobacteria blooms more effectively, but what is still needed? This presentation will provide an overview of research needs as they relate to operational, planning and strategic drivers of Australia's second-largest water utility.